

Nature Art

Nature art uses objects found in nature to create a sculpture or design. Follow the steps below to make your own nature art.

1. Go somewhere with nature and look around. What stands out to you? What is beautiful, or interesting? Look for patterns or colors or shapes.
2. Collect some natural materials. If you're in a public place, make sure that you know the rules about what you're allowed to move or pick up. For example, many parks have rules against picking plants.
3. Arrange your materials in a way that shows off what you noticed. Maybe you'll make a spiral, or a sculpture, or a shape.
4. When you are finished creating your art, take some pictures or show it to someone you are with.
5. Leave No Trace: put things back where they were so that other people can see it in a natural state, and so that we don't change the habitat for animals that live there.
